Montgomery Man Avowed Candidate.

Montgomery county will have a candidate for State Senator in the Montgomery Clark-Bourbon district in the person of J. Will Clay, of Mt. Sterling, one of the best known Democrats of Eastern Kentucky, who is an avowed candidate, and it is said this formal announcement for the Democratic nomination will be shortly forthcoming. At one time Mr. Clay was Representative from the Montgomery-Menifee district and served with distinction. He is a brother of State Insurance Commissioner Matt Clay, and is related to the large and influential Clay family in Bourbon county. His friends say he will not have any opposition for the nomination.

Lash Applied to Rustlers.

Seventy white robed members of a Ku Klux Klan early Friday inflicted severe punishment upon five alleged cattle rustlers in a remote section of Ohio county. For several months the farmers in the neighborhood have been missing cattle, and several parties were suspected of the thievery. While five of the parties under suspicion were fox hunting near Peter's Cave, a remote section among the Kentucky hills, the crowd swooped down upon them.

AMID GREAT SPLENDOR

Woodrow Wilson is Inaugurated
 President of the United States.

MARSHALL TAKES OATH.

Flower of American Man And Womanhood Attend Inaugural Ceremonies.

Amid scenes of splendor and enthusiasm, in the presence of the flower of American man and womanhood, Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, Wednesday was inaugurated the twenty-eighth President of the United States.

Even the commonplaces of the day seemed to electrify the hundreds of thousands who witnessed them, seemed to draw from the very magnitude of the event a thrilling potentiality. Reverence for the sacredness of the ceremonies, symbolic of the peaceful power of a self governed nation to change its rulers; enthusiastic and uproarious acclaim, of the new order of things; patriotic pride in the institutions of the country; the clamor of exuberant joy; the hushed tributes to the solemn rituals of the occasion—all these at various times seemed uppermost and dominant, contributing in turn to make complete the unfolding of the many varied emotions of the animated multitude.

Inauguration day dawned cold and gray. A solid bank of heavy clouds completely shut off the sun and threatened to carry out the official prediction of "unsettled weather." With a temperature between 45 and 50 degrees, a light South wind fanned the city, but no such discomfort as attended the inauguration blizzard of four years ago threatened.

Daylight found things moving swiftly toward the climax of the day's program.

Standing at the historic east front of the Capitol Mr. Wilson took the constitutional oath of office, and in his brief inaugural address made a fervid appeal to all patriotic men for counsel and aid.

Vice President Marshall had been inaugurated in the Senate chamber only shortly before, and at the conclusion of President Wilson's address, the party hurried back to the White House, ahead of the inaugural procession, where Mr. Taft said goodbye to President Wilson and prepared to leave at once for Augusta, Ga. President Wilson shortly afterward took his place to review the procession.

JAMES SWORN IN.

Ollie M. James was sworn in as United States Senator from Kentucky Wednesday afternoon. Many Kentuckians witnessed the ceremonies in the Senate chamber. Mrs. James, the Misses Lizzie and Ruby James, sisters and Edgar James, a brother, were in the galleries. Mr. James was escorted down the aisle by Senator William Bradley, who by the retirement of Senator T. H. Paynter becomes senior senator from Kentucky. Vice President Marshall administered the oath to Mr. James.

KENTUCKIANS AT THE CAPITAL.

Kentucky was well represented at the inaugural ceremonies. Governor McCreary, Ollie James, the Mose Green club of Louisville and a delegation from Marion took part in the parade. The governor said he had intended to bring Kentucky troops with him to march, but declared that it cost too much money in view of the present heavy debt under which the State is laboring.

TAFT LEAVES FOR SOUTH.

With a smile for everyone; a handshake for his Cabinet members and a courtly bow to the women who gathered at Union Station in Washington, William Howard Taft Wednesday retired from public life after serving the United States in various capacities since he was 21. With his family the former President departed for Augusta, Ga., where he will spend three weeks as the guest of the city, after which he will go to New Haven to take up his duties as a professor of law at Yale University.

KENTUCKIANS DISPLAY PRIDE.

A dispatch from Elkton, Ky., Wednesday contained the following: "Scores of friends today thronged the McRey home here at an informal reception to offer congratulations."
